16-Year-Old Carolyn Henry Strikes Father Down as He Reaches for Gun, She Says.

STRUCK IN DEFENSE, DAUGHTER CLAIMS

Mother Corroborates Girl's Story; Henry Had Driven Family From Home, She Alleges.

Buford, Ga., April 16.—(Special.) Carlton Henry, about 55 years of age, a farmer living about three miles north of Buford, is at the point of death as a result of having been struck in the head with a hammer by his 16-year-old daughter, Carolyn. The incident occurred at the Henry home late Sunday afternoon, and at a late hour Monday it was believed the elder Henry would die as a result of the blow.

According to the daughter, whose story was corroborated by her mother, the father had been on a protracted drinking spree, lasting over a period of more than a week. The young woman and her mother said the father had driven them from their home several days ago while in a drunken rage, and Sunday had visited them at the home of a neighbor, ordering them to return.

When they had reached their home, the girl said, her father, still intoxicated, had announced his intention of killing the mother and herself and of ending his own life. It was while he was reaching for a gun, the young woman told officers, that she picked up a hammer and struck her father over the head.

No action had been taken by officers late Monday, the girl being at liberty pending the outcome of her father's wounds.

ALMA MAN HELD IN HOLTON DEATH

Body Is Exhumed, Revealing Several Knife Wounds; Warrant Issued for Woman's Arrest

Alma, Ga., April 16.—(Special.)—After his relatives had become suspicious of the manner in which Madison Holton, 57, had come to his death at the home of Mrs. Mary Jane Cotten, near here, last Friday, a coroner's jury examined the exhumed body of the dead man Sunday and ordered Bill Cotten held in connection with Holton's death.

A warrant also was issued for the arrest of Nettie Cotten, a relative of the man held in jail here, but up to a late hour Monday she had not been taken into custody.

Holton, who died Friday, was buried late Saturday afternoon. Rumors of foul play were circulated among the crowd that attended his funeral and his family decided to ask authorities to disinter the body. Exhumation was made Sunday afternoon and the coroner's jury found several knife wounds and a number of bruises on the dead man's body.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was to the effect that Holton came to his death "under peculiar circumstances" and ordered young Cotten held. No particulars were known by the coroner's jury in connection with the arrest of Cotten or of the issuing of a warrant for the arrest of Nettie Cotten.

Sinclair Trial Judge Speeds Up Hearing On Oil Conspiracy

DANCE HALL BLAST LAID TO HATRED BY GARAGE OWNER

Inquest Advances Theory That Fanatic Prejudice to Amusement Caused Placing of Explosive.

West Plains, Mo., April 16.—(P) Revenge and financial troubles were two motives advanced today by Prosecuting Attorney Green as he pressed his investigation into the cause of the explosion that destroyed a dance hall here last week, killing 40.

Green suggested that J. M. Wiser, 47, who rented a garage below the dance hall, may have been responsible for the blast, either because of pronounced views against dancing or because financial troubles may have led him to suicide. Wiser, a devout churchman, was killed in the explosion.

He had not made public expression of his hatred of dancing here, but at his former home in Alton, Mo., he was known as opposed to it, but not violently.

May Be Accidental.

The prosecutor pointed out also that so far as direct evidence shows, Wiser might have caused the explosion accidentally. He is confident, however, that it was not caused by gasoline fumes, as at first supposed.

Wiser's body, exhumed yesterday shortly after burial, revealed burns on the face believed by physicians to have been caused by acid. These, said Green, might have resulted while handling acid.

Green said he had witnesses ready to testify that Wiser was at the garage 20 minutes before the blast occurred, and that one man climbed into the garage shortly after a light that flickered for a few moments and went out just before the building was found 20 feet back of the garage.

Gas Fumes Blamed.

Coroner Burns held to the theory that Wiser went to the garage, opened the door and struck a match which ignited gasoline fumes.

On the other hand, Green pointed out, the 50-gallon tank in the garage was found intact and had not been leaking.

Wiser, however, had purchased five gallons of gasoline to use in a "dancer" for washing automobile parts the day of the explosion.

No physical evidence of a dynamite explosion, such as a hole in the ground, has been discovered.

Wiser left home at 4 p. m. the day of the explosion, and did not return for the evening. His wife said she supposed he had remained downtown, although he did not usually return to the garage at night.

Wiser voluntarily cancelled his contract as sales agent for the Oakland Motor Car company last week. He had no indebtedness with the company but was indebted to the General Motors Acceptance corporation, the prosecuting attorney said.

TOWN IN FLORIDA GETS FIRST SNOW IN THIRTY YEARS

Mayport, Fla., April 16.—(P)—For the first time in 30 years a light snow fell in this little town today.

The snowfall, even though ever so light, was noticeable to the eye. The slight flakes melted before they touched the ground.

A little snow fell here 30 years ago, the only previous fall on record.

With generally fair and gradually rising temperatures forecast for tomorrow, north Florida was looking forward tonight to relief from the most unusual "cool spell" on record for this time of the year.

Mayport is a little fishing village 20 miles from Jacksonville on the coast.

Mr. Gatti's Visit Here To Crown Season

Famous Impresario To See Metropolitan Perform Here for First Time in 18 Years.

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

The forthcoming visit of M. Gatti-Casazza to Atlanta during the season his famous Metropolitan Opera company will offer its annual program of grand opera in Atlanta next week will bring to Atlanta one of the foremost musical figures of all time and will add a zest to a season which gave promise, without his visit, of going down in local musical history as one of the most outstanding appearances of the noted company of singers during the 18 years opera has been offered in Atlanta.

Mr. Gatti has served for 20 seasons as general manager of the Metropolitan Opera company and during that period the company has made marvelous advances, both in the quality of the performances and in the discovery and development of singers. Mr. Gatti succeeded Herr Corried as head of the Metropolitan and with Maurice Grau, who preceded Corried, this trio has directed the opera company during its most successful periods.

"Alas" Leads Productions.

In the 20 years Mr. Gatti has headed this organization the opera offered the largest number of times is "Alas" with 146 presentations. It is a noteworthy fact that five of the ten operas ranking highest in the number of performances will be sung in Atlanta during the present season. This is irrefutable evidence that this year's program is composed of the best things possible in a Metropolitan repertoire.

While "Alas" leads during the regime of Mr. Gatti, the popular "La Boheme," which will be sung here Saturday night, is second with 130 presentations. Next comes "Pagliacci," to be sung here Wednesday afternoon of opera week, with 129 presentations. In the first ten "Carmen" ranks seventh with 87 presentations. The first ten are "La Traviata," "Don Giovanni," "Rigoletto," "Tosca," "Madame Butterfly" and "Lohengrin." Two of these were sung in Atlanta last season so that Atlanta, in the last ten years, has witnessed productions of seven of the first ten operas in general popularity. Few operas were attempted during the present season by Mr. Gatti.

BRIDGE, SCHOOL WORK AWARDED BY CITY BODIES

Council and Aldermanic Board Take Decisive Steps in Furtherance of Bond Fund Building.

NEW NON-PARKING AREA IS APPROVED

Stout Company Gets 5 School Contracts for $534,000; Nichols to Excavate for City Hall.

City council and the aldermanic board Monday afternoon took the following decisive steps in furtherance of improvements contemplated from administration of the $8,000,000 bond funds:

1. Award of the contract for erection of the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts to the MacLoughlin Construction company for $788,000 on a cash basis bid was assured, when a proposal of Fulton county commissioners that the county pay $386,068.68 in full discharge of its obligation concerning a contribution towards construction of the bridges was accepted.
2. Award of the general contracts for the Base, Brown and O'Keefe Junior High schools and the electrical contracts for the same structures also was voted and will go to Mayor I. N. Ragsdale for his signature of approval.
3. Passage of contracts for five new school contracts to be awarded to the J. W. Stout company for $534,000 to plan in city council by a vote of 12 to 11. Alderman Claude Ashley, mayor pro tem, casting his vote for the award and thus breaking a tie. The papers never reached the aldermanic board because they were held up on notice of reconsideration filed by Councilman Jack C. Hardy, of the sixth ward, and seconded by Councilman Ellis B. Barrett, of the fifth ward.
4. Award of the contract for excavation for the foundation of the new city hall at Mitchell and Washington streets to the Nichols Contracting company for $8,000 was voted. This is the first construction work to be begun on Atlanta's new $1,300,000 municipal building, but actual contract for the structure can be awarded by June 1, according to predictions of these in charge of preparations.
5. Establishment of a non-parking and restricted parking area in the central business district to expedite flow of traffic during construction of the city hall.

FUNDS OF UPSHAW ARE GARNISHEED

Money Obtained in Debate With Darrow on Prohibition Held Up for Two Bank Notes.

Funds due W. D. Upshaw, former Georgia congressman, for his debate Friday night on the prohibition issue with Clarence Darrow, Chicago criminal lawyer, have been garnished on a debt he is alleged to owe a defunct bank here.

Darrow, the Alhambra Lyceum system, which staged the debate, and Russell Bridges, of Atlanta, president of the concern, were named defendants in two suits brought in municipal court by A. B. Mobley, state superintendent of banks, to recover for creditors of the defunct Farmers and Trades bank on two notes indorsed by Mr. Upshaw.

Service was obtained on the defendants and funds from the debate payable to Mr. Upshaw have been tied up pending settlement of the suits, according to court records.

One of the suits says Mr. Upshaw owes the face value of a $700 note he gave the bank—the first of the Manley chain to close its doors—on April 2, 1926, while the other was based on his indorsement of a $110 note presented by the Southern Commercial congress.

Darrow is only technically connected with the suit, and it was understood that payment of his share will not be delayed.

The suits were filed by Attorneys J. F. Kemp, C. M. Davis and Orville A. Park, the latter two as representatives of the banking department having charge of collection of debts due the defunct bank.

BREMEN PLANS TO RESUME HOP TO GOTHAM AS RESCUE PLANE TAKES FITZMAURICE

SCHILLER ARRIVES ON CANADIAN SOIL WITH IRISH PILOT

Will Continue Flight to New York Today; Koehl and Huenefeld Stay To Guard Ship.

MESSAGES RELATE PERILS IN AIR

Laconic Sentences Sent by Crew Tell Story of Battle Against Fog, Snow and Sleet.

Seven Islands, Quebec, April 16.—(United News.)—One of the crew of the trans-Atlantic monoplane, Bremen, was halfway back to civilization tonight while the other two—the Germans—stood by their plane on ice-bound Greenly Island, off the Labrador coast.

Commandant—or major since Sunday—James Fitzmaurice, of the Irish Free State air force, arrived this afternoon at Natusquan on the St. Lawrence river.

Duke Schiller, famous Canadian pilot, flying in behalf of the North American Newspaper Alliance and The Atlanta Constitution, took Fitzmaurice from Greenly island at 10 a. m. today.

Schiller had proposed at first to fly direct to Murray bay or Quebec. But he decided to land at Natusquan for the night and continue his flight Tuesday morning.

Since the Bremen, its last drop of fuel, poured out, silted over the ice of a little lake on Greenly island Friday evening, four days will have passed before any of the crew can be back in the world of the ordinary man.

Herman Koehl and Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, the German members of the crew, are remaining with the Bremen, watching to see that no harm comes to her from the arctic weather which is having a bitter final fling, and trying to repair her damaged tail-skid in hope that they can fly her in triumph to Mitchell Field, N. Y.

There will be many stories of the aviators to tell, and for those to tell who have succored them since their heroic flight.

Dispatches from Greenly island today told how Koehl and von Huenefeld were guarding their plane from the raging elements.

As late as 6 p. m. Sunday a violent storm was raging over the two-mile-by-one island which loomed like a desert oasis out of a heavy fog. One of the heaviest snows ever recorded, even along the bleak Labrador coast, was falling.

It was through the western portion of this storm area that Duke Schiller flew Sunday to the rescue of the Bremen's crew.

He had left Natusquan at noon and landed at Blanc Sablon, on the coast opposite Greenly island, at 4:30. He remained overnight.

PROBE COMMITTEE CLEARS J. A. COUCH

Alderman Exonerated of Charges That He Received $7,000 in School Real Estate Deal.

Alderman J. Allen Couch, of the fifth ward, and chairman of the school committee of city council, Monday afternoon was given a rising vote of confidence by city council and was completely exonerated of charges that he had received or was to have received $7,000 in commissions in purchase of a tract of land on which the State and Haygood schools of the fifth ward are to be merged.

In accepting the report of the special council investigating committee, which was headed by Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, council wiped the slate clean and as an indication of its confidence in Mr. Couch adopted the findings of the committee by a "rising vote."

The accusations against the alderman, the oldest member of general council in point of continuous service, were hurled by Dr. R. M. Eubanks, school commissioner from the fourth ward, and a former president of the Atlanta board of education, at a meeting held several weeks ago. Mr. Couch immediately demanded an investigation committee to inquire into simple desertion.

Schiller's Rescue Flight Is Epic of Air Battles

Pilot, Correspondent of Constitution, Beats Field

(Special Dispatch to The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance.) (Copyright, 1928, in all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Murray Bay, Quebec, April 16.—The flight of "Duke" Schiller, Dr. Louis Cuisinier and Thibault, a mechanic, through snow storms and cyclonic gales to the rescue of the crew of the Bremen, is destined to take rank as one of the greatest of aviation feats. Schiller and his companions were commissioned by the North American Newspaper Alliance, of which The Constitution is the Georgia member, to find the marooned aviators on Greenly Island. They secured a Fairchild mail plane, equipped with skis, filled it with fuel and took off.

At 10:50 Saturday morning the Fairchild took off from Murray Bay. It lifted swiftly and gracefully to a parting salute of cheers and shouted wishes. Quickly it was lost to sight, making for its first objective Seven Islands, Quebec, 230 miles away.

At 2:38 Saturday afternoon Schiller put his ship down at Seven Islands. There was a quick call for workmen to aid in installing extra fuel tanks for the next and last leg of this thrust in the lower arctic, a desperately dangerous leap which must span 600 stormy miles.

"We want three extra tanks and want 'em quick," ordered Schiller. "We're leaving at dawn tomorrow. And he cocked an eye at the sky to see what the weather promised. He flashed a radio message back to Murray Bay.

"Ship all okay for take-off to Greenly Island," it said. "Will wireless immediately arrive here."

Storm Delays Start.

But with daybreak today came vicious weather. An icy wind, slashing hard; rain, driving down at a searching angle. A falling temperature, and then snow.

Broken messages came snapping through to Murray Bay from Schiller. They talked of the weather. They expressed bitter alarm lest the rival plane, still back in Murray Bay, would overhaul the Fairchild. But they told, also, of a cold determination to cut through that storm wheel it showed the slightest sign of abating.

Schiller need have had no fear of the rival plane, however. For the weather was bad in Murray Bay, too.

CAPITAL STIRRED BY SMITH CLAIM

Supporters Declare That Governor Will Get 613 Votes on First Ballot—More Later.

BY SAM W. SMALL.

Special Correspondent.

Washington, April 16.—The political quid nuncs about the capital today were buzzing like the capital of the figures put out by the Smith boosters and purporting to show 613 certain votes for him on the first ballot, with 711 coming to him thereafter and enough others probable to put him over as the nominee on the third or fourth ballot.

The most positive Smith congressmen are even claiming that by the calling to order of the convention Smith will be so certainly the nominee as to be put forth by acclamation without the formality of a roll call, as in cases such as those of Jackson, Cleveland and Bryan in their renominations.

There is no questioning the impression that the Smith march in unexpected areas is making upon the democratic leaders here. Some of them are almost willing to concede that Smith cannot now be stopped and that the band wagon boys all over the map will be falling over each other to get safely onto the Tammany truck.

It is admitted that this is a political situation.

HUENEFELD SAYS SHIP WILL LEAVE ISLE WEDNESDAY

Radio Message Reports Repairs Proceeding Rapidly; Sister Ship Flies With New Parts.

WALKER ORDERS GIANT RECEPTION

Will Delay Official Welcome Until All Three Members of Crew Arrive in New York.

Montreal, April 16.—(Canadian Press.)—The Junkers monoplane Bremen will continue its journey to New York Wednesday if repairs can be completed in time, the Canadian Press was informed tonight in a message given out by the local office of the Marconi Wireless company.

The message came from the Marconi company's superintendent, W. S. Barrett, at the Point Amour wireless station opposite Greenly Island. His message read:

"Bremen shaft damaged but repairable. Expect leave Greenly Island Wednesday. Bremen had fog and snow during part of its flight. Took Greenly Island lighthouse for sailing steamer but ascertained that it was light house shortly afterward and made landing on small pond. Crew were rather exhausted but recovered after short time."

The Junkers monoplane F-13, sister ship of the trans-Atlantic monoplane Bremen, landed at St. Hubert airport, Montreal, today after a flight of a little less than 1000 miles from Curtiss field, New York.

Miss Herta Junkers, daughter of the builder of the Bremen, explained the purpose of the flight was to study "more closely the Bremen situation." She said there was little possibility of flying the ship to Greenly island, where the Bremen was last Friday after its hop from Ireland.

The length of her stay in Montreal, Miss Junkers said, will depend entirely on the news that comes from the Bremen's crew.

Miss Junkers, who alternated at the controls with Pilot Fred Melchior during the flight from Curtiss field, also was accompanied by her brother, Elmerhardt Junkers.

New York's official reception to the crew of the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen will take place when the three fliers are here tonight, Mayor Walker said tonight.

In a telegram to Captain James Fitzmaurice, who was flying to Natusquan, Que., from Greenly island, the mayor said:

"All citizens of New York, irrespective of race, color or creed, are waiting impatiently the arrival of all three of the Bremen crew. Official program has been arranged on this basis: simultaneous reception to Captain Koehl, Baron von Huenefeld and yourself. I wish to renew my sincere congratulations."

EIGHT PAINT STORES IN ATLANTA

1ST AND 5TH WARDS JOIN IN 'CLEAN-UP'

A joint rally of first and fifth ward workers in Maddox park at 3 o'clock this afternoon will feature the second day of Atlanta's twenty-first annual "Clean-Up, Paint-Up Week" following the parade which officially launched the week Monday.

Chief of the Sanitary Department John Jontzen, John White, chairman of the city council parks committee; Alderman Guy Dobbs, Mrs. J. R. Little, director general of the campaign and chairman of the civic division of the Atlanta Woman's club; Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, will speak briefly on different phases of the campaign, which is directed toward conservation of property and health, as well as toward improving the appearance of the city.

A demonstration will be made of the city health department's methods of insect control, stressing the drive that was launched Monday, as a phase of the general "clean-up, paint-up" campaign, to protect the city against mosquito and fly pests.

Another demonstration will show methods of garbage disposal in communities which aim at a higher standard of cleanliness than the limited equipment and staff of the city sanitary department permits for the city as a whole, Mrs. Little said.

The Girl Scouts of the Salvation Army, and the Anti-Tuberculosis association will have parts in the Maddox park rally. Events are scheduled at Grant park at 3 o'clock Wednesday for that section of the city, and at Piedmont park Thursday at 11 o'clock for north side residents.

The parade, which opened the week, moved from Peachtree and Baker streets at noon Monday, headed by a patrol of mounted police, the police band, the Marietta college band, Chief Cody and a unit of fire-fighting apparatus. In the line of march were the Girl Scouts of the Salvation Army, the Boy Scouts, the ward chairman of the general clean-up, paint-up campaign committee and representatives of other civic organizations. A number of floats practically demonstrating cleanup methods, including garbage disposal, smoke control and others.

The Smoke Abatement league entered three floats, under chairmanship of Cyril Deltzer, of the league.

A. W. Jones, city smoke inspector, was marshal of the parade. It disbanded at Grady monument, where Mayor I. N. Ragsdale delivered the official proclamation setting this week aside as "Clean-Up, Paint-Up Week."

and after an exhaustive probe, returned a report which bore the unanimous sanction of the committee. More than a score of witnesses were called to the stand during the hearing and a stenographic report of the proceedings filled 241 pages.

Findings of the committee, however, "justified" Dr. Eubanks in making the complaint inasmuch as they were contained in minutes of the school contact committee of the Atlanta bond commission.

Text of the committee's report follows:

"We, your committee appointed to investigate the alleged charges against Alderman J. Allen Couch, hereby submit the following report:

"1. We held three public hearings in the city council chamber, and made an exhaustive inquiry from every angle, which shows as submitted here, compiled in book form 241 pages.

"2. From the testimony given under oath by the various witnesses, we find no evidence to substantiate the charges that Alderman Couch was either directly or indirectly implicated in the sale of this property, and that he did not receive any portion of the commission or any of the profit derived from said sale, and that he was completely exonerated in the above stated matter.

"3. We feel that Dr. Eubanks was justifiable in bringing out these alleged charges, in view of the fact that they were embodied in the minutes of the bond commission under date of November 7, 1927, and it was better for the city of Atlanta and Alderman Couch that this matter be fully investigated and the findings reported to the mayor and general council.

"4. Members of the bond commission under oath testified that they interpreted Alderman Couch's statement pertaining to profits to be realized from the sale of the Haygood estate, as meaning that Couch personally was not to receive any profit, but that the entire profit would go to the Dolvin Realty company.

"5. We recommend that the bond commission in the future be more careful in compiling their minutes and that they not embody any statement in them that they do not fully understand, as such was the case in this matter."

SCHILLER'S FLIGHT EPIC OF AIR BATTLES

distance he covered to Billings, however, was almost as great as he would have flown to Spokane.

Schiller was an experienced pilot long before he engaged in these spectacular feats. He learned his flying early, and kept on flying because he loved it.

Tall, blonde, massive, he is an easy-mannered giant, and he seems, on his occasional visits to his Toronto home to fill the house at 2 Ostrander avenue, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schiller, live.

Born in United States.

Though his parents are both Canadians, Schiller, who is nearly 29, was born in the United States. He grew up in Toronto, however, and entered the Royal Air Force in 1917, at an age considerably under the eighteen to thirty years enlistment officers-made him testify. Fine flier from the beginning, he was detailed to instruction duty at the Deseronto, Ont., training school. Since then he has been flying continuously.

Commercial aviation attracted him after the war and in 1919 he conducted a pioneer effort in aerial advertising. Then, until 1923, he flew a passenger plane between Miami and Nassau.

In 1924 he returned to Canada and joined the Ontario Province Air service as member of the forestry patrol.

"He was one of the best pilots we had," said Captain Roy Maxwell, director of the Provincial Air service.

Shortly after leaving this organization for the Windsor-to-Windsor flight, Schiller performed a notable feat which saved a man's life. He was with his observer, Pineo, and a mechanic, Tom Stull, far from their base, when the observer became acutely ill with appendicitis. The nearest hospital was at Fort William, Ontario, 80 miles away, and the weather made normal flying impossible. Heavy fog and rain made it extremely difficult to see a course, and gusty winds increased the danger.

But Schiller placed the sick man in his plane, and flew at top speed a few yards above the railroad tracks, almost skimming tree tops, so he could keep low enough to find his way.

Schiller got his man to the hospital in time for the hasty operation which saved him.

Through the North American Newspaper Alliance and the Toronto Star, Schiller's parents sent their son a message to be relayed to Duke as he fought to be the first to reach the stranded Bremen.

"Our best wishes for success of trip," ran the message. "We shall be looking forward to your weekly letter."

Mrs. Schiller was confident her boy would succeed. "One thing I am sure of," she exclaimed, "if anybody can get through to Greenley Island it's Duke."

JOHNSON TO HANG AT GRAY MAY 11

Gray, Ga., April 16.—(AP)—Wade Johnson was sentenced for the fourth time to die on the gallows, in Jones superior court here today. Judge James B. Park fixed Friday, May 11, as the new execution date.

Johnson and a companion, Jarrett Benford, were convicted of criminal assault in May, 1924, on an aged white woman who lived alone on a road near Gray. The woman died from injuries suffered during the attack. Both were sentenced to life imprisonment by former Governor Clifford Walker, and he is now serving in a prison camp. Johnson has been held for the last four years in the Bibb county jail at Macon.

He was returned there immediately after sentence had been pronounced.

WEDDING PARTY OF 13 PERSONS BURNED IN HOME

Altoona, Pa., April 16.—(AP)—Thirteen persons were burned to death at Blair Four, 20 miles south of here, early today when fire destroyed the home of Embro Krepachalk.

The dead include a mother and her seven children, and five men. They had gathered for a wedding in the home of Krepachalk, a quarryman. A daughter of the family was married Saturday, and the bride and groom were among the dead. The cause of the fire was not determined.

The dead: Mrs. Annie Krepachalk, 28, and her seven children, ranging in age from 7 to 19, and including Annie Zerbontz, 19, a daughter who was married Saturday, and her husband, John Zerbontz, 19, of Ganister, Pa.; Carl Chiscon, 31; Thomas Hoschick, 43; Peter Zerb, 28, and Joseph Rendelle, 21, the latter of East Brady, Pa.

Blair Four is a little quarry camp settlement a few miles outside Williamsburg. The house, a two-story frame, burned rapidly, the only one to escape being Embro Krepachalk, who was on the first floor. The others were trapped on the second floor.

Coroner C. Rothrock is investigating.

each side to question the witnesses. In the past each side has asked dozens of questions of every prospective juror, many of them being identical from both sides. Justice Bailey took over the entire questioning, refusing to ask all but a few questions suggested by the attorneys, and passing over entirely the tedious examination of prospective jurors as to age, former residence, former occupation, family connections and such. His questions were entirely directed to the point as to whether a prospective juror felt he could render a fair verdict on the basis of the evidence in the courtroom. If he felt a juror could do that, Justice Bailey did not care whether he might have read newspapers, heard radio speeches or otherwise conducted himself as an intelligent citizen might be expected to.

And without waiting for the lawyers to discuss it, he ordered the jury locked up during the trial to prevent the possibility of tampering and he warned that neither side should refer to this matter in the presence of the jury.

Sinclair Brings Daughter.

Justice Bailey has also been alert to prevent attorneys from slipping over important evidence. When Daniel Wright, spokesman for Sinclair, made his opening statement to the jury, he was abruptly shut off by Justice Bailey. Today the judge refused to permit the defense to introduce a working model of Teapot Dome evidence.

Sinclair's small daughter appeared with her father in the defendant's box in the courtroom today but before long one of Sinclair's lawyers, after a whispered consultation with the court, suggested that she sit back with her mother in the regular spectators' seats.

In the previous trial of the case which was ended mid-way by the detective shadowing hours were consumed by attorneys' arguments over technical points. Justice Bailey has refused to wait for most of these arguments. When an objection is raised, he announced his ruling almost instantly. He has been obliged at times to stop attempts of counsel to make extended arguments over objected points. If there is room for doubt, Justice Bailey suggests that briefs be submitted with the privilege of coming back to the matter later if he changes his mind, permitting the case to go on meantime.

Warns Newspapers.

Over defense objections Justice Bailey admitted testimony today showing that Sinclair gave Fall $25,000 when they were about to go to Russia on a concession deal.

Justice Bailey said he understood alleged extracts from Fall's recent deposition which is to be used as defense testimony in the trial have been or are to be printed by some newspapers. He said printing of the deposition in advance would be contempt of court and that if it is published he would have to take steps to punish accordingly.

The defense began presentation of its testimony today. The first three defense witnesses were cut short when Justice Bailey decided their testimony regarding drainage and whether the law required competitive bidding was irrelevant.

Arthur W. Ambrose, former interior department petroleum technologist, who assisted Fall in framing the Sinclair lease, said he had never been instructed by Fall to keep the matter secret. On cross-examination by the government, Ambrose proved faulty about most matters upon which Owen J. Roberts questioned him.

RECIPE TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary. Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1-4 oz. of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.—(adv.)

Erlanger Players Are Given Ovation at Opening Here

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

As a vast audience, distinguished for its brilliancy and culture, sat rapt and enthralled Edward Sheldon's powerful play, "Romance," was presented Monday night at the Erlanger by the new production company headed by Miss Helen Menken and sponsored by Miss Helen Williams and Fred Kohlmar, young New York producers, and despite the obstacles faced in the opening of a repertory engagement, it proved to be one of the most engaging dramatic offerings ever seen in Atlanta.

In a role which taxes all the resources of a great actress Miss Menken gave Atlanta people a theatrical portrayal that has seldom been duplicated anywhere away from Broadway. Running the gamut of all possible human emotions this little woman in every move and gesture brought Atlanta a revelation in the dramatic art and created a character that will remain vivid in the memory of those who appreciate good acting in all its minutest details and who recognize the mastery of the art of acting when they see it. Backed by a superb company of players, at company which measure up in every respect to the statements that it is one of the most capable repertory companies to leave New York the opening play demonstrated beyond question that this company is ready, able and capable of giving Atlanta this summer the best things possible on the dramatic stage. The audience Monday night apparently realized this, because Miss Menken was given a veritable ovation, was forced to respond to innumerable bows while the members of her company, particularly George Baxter and Felix Krembs, came in for a liberal share of the encomiums. Miss Menken, at the end of the second act, was presented with a galaxy of beautiful bouquets that almost filled the stage and formed a bower of flowers behind which the little actress bowed and smiled her thanks.

"Romance" is not a play that will be found in the repertoire of the stock companies or tent theaters, nor will it be witnessed in the small town circuits, because it is a play that requires the efforts of the most gifted players to present it properly. It is drama, tremendous and absorbing, and the least weakness on the part of the company or star would spoil its convincing effect. That it was admirably and perfectly acted Monday night was the unanimous agreement of all the people who packed the Erlanger theater to capacity to witness the inaugural production.

In "Romance" the soul of a woman is laid bare. The soul of a woman who, as a faded and faded opera star, has tasted of the world's nectar and who, as a poverty stricken street singer, has tasted its bitter chalice. A volatile woman of gay lights and laughter, who appears in triumph in New York in the early '80s, and after many affairs with men, finally falls deeply in love with a young clerkman. A woman who loves as hard as she has played, who realizes too late the price she must pay for her past weakness and folly and who is regenerated through the sheer strength of her love and that which she has inspired in the heart of her lover.

Miss Menken took the human heart placed in it in her hand and laid it bare before her audience. To do this she taxed all her strength and all her resources as an actress, resources stored up after years of study and hard work, to a grim determination to perfect herself in her art. It is, indeed, the perfection of art and all those who like to see acting at its best, acting which begins where the usual run-of-the-road acting leaves off, acting which touches the well springs of emotions in the human breast and elicits alternate tears and smiles, should by all means witness Miss Menken's masterful portrayal of "Mme. Cavalli" in "Romance."

Messrs. Williams and Kohlmar have exercised discriminating judgment in their selection of a supporting cast for Miss Menken. In George Baxter, leading man, who played the part of the young clerkman, they have brought to Atlanta an able young player who in every way responded to the calls made upon him. He is serious and painstaking, he plays with a refined repression, which is in keeping with the character of Miss Menken in the third act rises to supreme heights. He possesses the necessary good looks, has a manner and bearing which appeal and every way won the sympathy and appreciation of his audience.

As a busy man-of-the-world, keenly interested in the best things of life, wealthy and masterful, Felix Krembs played with rare polish and finish. As one of the early lovers of "Mme. Cavalli" and in some respects her mentor and firm friend, although she had been his mistress, this able actor's work was one of the best things of the evening. At all times easy and graceful, full, his rich and penetrating voice under perfect enunciation control, Mr. Krembs was a sturdy and chivalrous figure in the play. My friend and leading man have appeared in Atlanta in various activities but it is safe to say that few of them are Mr. Krembs as equal as an actor. Although he was not a leading role he made it one of the outstanding hits of the show and shared the liberal applause bestowed on the company by the appreciative audience.

It is a delight to just sit and listen

JIMMIE HODGES STILL HEADS FUN MAN AT CAPITOL

Jimmie Hodges, known rather widely in these parts as the head soda sleet at the Fountain of Fun, which, for the past several weeks, has been doing a rushing business on the Capitol theater stage, continues to serve palatable rib-ticklers to audiences with his current show "The Wayside Inn," which is presented in addition to Princess Yvonne and two other variety turns on the stage and "The Little Snob," with May McAvoy, on the screen.

The rollicking Mr. Hodges, who has the largest and most varied collection of hats, chapeaux and sombreros in the city, has been a success in Atlanta, allowing himself to run loose this week in a riot of fun delivered mostly in his ad lib style.

For the variety surrounding him is rather good, and the music is light, humorous and laughable, with everything a big jumble between wives who play the conventional poker and husbands who play the conventional poker and husbands who play the conventional poker.

Princess Yvonne, one of those question-answerers, is a song if it is not seen her boy friend, Lucky B. F. (Not beef, Mr. Printer, please!)

TEAL'S OFFERING GRIPPING WAR FILM SCORE AT HOWARD

If the applause of "first nighters" may be taken as a criterion, the Howard's program this week has been conservatively presented. Both the stage and screen offering combine to make some of the most pleasing entertainment this critic has witnessed in weeks.

The inimitable Mr. Teal, suave leader of the Howard's stage band, is at his best in a little skit, "He Ain't Done Right by Sell," which, incidentally, was arranged by Ray himself. But truthfully, the entire stage presentation is a wow. "Listen In" has brought an unusual brilliant array of talent to the Rubix house, and there's hardly a chance of disappointment. Dolores and Eddy have a delightful dancing act; Carlos and Inez, stars of "The Music Box Revue," are exceptionally good, and there's Jerome Mann, "The Boy Product of Songs." Can he sing, and how?

The other two acts, "Herman Semon," and the "Ada Kaufman Girls," also come in for a liberal bit of house.

And the screen—"The Legion of the Condemned," a gripping war romance, featuring Gary Cooper and Fay Wray—deviates from the typical slant on the so-called "great struggle."

It's a story of those who wanted to die—young men who defied death for the sake of a woman, who fought among themselves for a woman, who fought among themselves for a woman.

MENTAL WIZARD

HEADLINES GOOD

BILL AT GEORGIA

Harry Kahne, regarded as one of the world's greatest mentalists, headlines an unusually good vaudeville program this week at Keith's Georgia theater. The picture, "Stand and Deliver," with Rod La Rocque and Lupe Velez, the young Mexican beauty, in the leading roles, is full of romance and thrills, and one of the best of recent pictures.

Kahne demonstrated his ability to add a column of figures, write names, copy newspaper headlines, carry on a conversation with persons in the audience at one and the same time. He also wrote several names upside down and backward while reciting "On the Road to Mandalay" and while hanging by his feet.

Another of the acts which received much applause was "The Musical Conservatory," featuring Dan Holt, Dale and Adair and the Hazel Churchill Trio. This act was a real novelty, presented some fine music and two novelty dances.

Joe Weston and Collette Lyons, former musical comedy stars, offered an interesting act of character interpretation, mixed with songs and dance numbers. They scored a big hit with "Monday's Child."

Gus Bartram and Verner Saxton offered a cycle of new popular songs and comedy bits.

A novelty act that was a riot of fun and laughter was presented by W. H. Groh, with the assistance of C. L. Rowe and his numerous canines.

An overture by the Keith-Albee concert orchestra led by J. P. Whitley, a conductor, a new and the screen feature complete the program.

Is Indigestion

Making Your

Life Miserable

Indigestion, proven by scientific analysis, is the basic cause of more serious human ills than any other one thing, and in its acute stage is fatal. That is why it is so imperative to get instant relief when an attack comes. The only preparation the writer has ever found that gives a magical relief is "Digestant," which being a liquid, acts instantly it reaches the stomach—long before a pill could be even digested.

This Digestant is a most wonderful formula for the relief of indigestion, heartburn, acidosis, gas, flatulence, stomach and colon disorders, nausea, heart pressure or a general toxic condition. Get your druggist to give you a prescription of Gardner's Digestant, and if the first dose doesn't satisfy you, he will give you your money back. Digestant is sold and guaranteed by all druggists, or sent direct upon receipt of price, 50c and $1.00, with the same guarantee. Interstate Laboratories, Dept. 3, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

Cheers and prolonged applause from the Daughters of the American Revolution Monday night filled the convention hall in Washington, D. C., when Sir Esme Howard, ambassador from Great Britain, presented to the society the Union Jack. The unfurling of these colors, which 150 years ago only was a signal for such fighting as brought the battles of Bunker Hill, Lexington and Yorktown and such struggles as Valley Forge and the crossing of the Delaware. Just an incident, this offering of a flag. Just an incident, the acceptance of that flag. Yes. But such an incident as has no precedence in the past. They gathered were those daughters of fighting men, rebels against the rule of George III, daughters of men who won the independence, carved out of the field as we English men, the right to rule ourselves and to govern a part of the empire over which was flung the name of the United Kingdom.

The highest minister of that country, who some years ago has defeated 150 years ago, is cheered by the echo when she offers his daughter to the soldiers of the army.

WATER, LIGHT MEN OPEN MEET TODAY

Mayor Pro Tem Claude E. Ashley will welcome delegates of the Southern Water and Light association convention to Atlanta this morning, when a three-day meeting of public utilities representatives, featuring a series of conventions scheduled for Atlanta this week, is opened. This convention is one of five listed for this week at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel.

Today also will mark the opening of the conventions of Georgia Mutual Life Insurance company agents at the Biltmore and the Georgia Building and Loan association at the Chandler hotel in Decatur.

On Thursday the Order of Kamella, a national woman's benevolent and patriotic organization, will meet at the Ashley hotel for its national convention, while members of the Southern Educational Buyers and Business Officials Association Friday will open a two-day meeting at the Henry Grady hotel.

Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory university, and Governor Hardman are scheduled to address the meeting of business officials.

The Southern Builders Supply association and the American Surety company, of New York, held conventions at Atlanta Biltmore hotel on Monday.

L. M. Clarkson, chief engineer of the state board of health, will call the meeting of Southeastern Water and Light association to order. The convention will be pronounced by Dr. C. P. McLaughlin, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of the Redeemer, while the response to the address of welcome by Mr. Ashley will be given by

E. C. Morrison, of Bennettsville, S. C., past president of the association. The principal address at the opening session this morning will be delivered by A. M. Schoen, chief engineer of the Southeastern Underwriters' association.

Reading of reports and routine business will conclude the morning session. In the afternoon papers will be read by E. O. Sweet, superintendent of the Birmingham waterworks and president of the association, W. H. Veir, assistant engineer, Georgia state board of health, W. Woolen, of the Broad River Power company, South Carolina, and D. Dean, of the Atlanta waterworks.

BRIDGE, SCHOOL WORK AWARDED

viaducts also was voted without a dissent.

Work Starts This Week.

Alexander MacDougall, president of the MacDougall Construction company, successful bidder for the viaducts, stated Monday that actual work on the projects will begin this week, barring unforeseen difficulties.

The county will pay the $386,000 fund into the city treasury at once and will supplement the amount next year in the event the city finds itself in a financial strait which might jeopardize completion of the structures in such a manner as to impair the efficiency of the bridges. This decision was made at a joint conference at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon in the office of Mayor Ragsdale.

Alderman W. Guy Dobbs, chairman of the bridge committee, Councilman Wiley L. Moore, a member of the committee, and others attended the conference, at which Walter B. Stewart, chairman of Fulton county, and Paul S. Etheridge, another member of the committee, and Captain George M. Hope, chairman of the commission's finance body, represented the county. City Comptroller B. Graham West also was present. Although no stipulation as to the amount which the commissioners would be willing to contribute next year, if any, is needed, was set up, it was understood that the commissioners will supplement funds with the amount needed to construct the viaducts in accordance with plans already mapped out and provide adequate finances to assure renovations to buildings, payment of consequential and real damages and elimination of the office where Central avenue converges with Ivy street at the intersection of Decatur street at the time that the improvements are being erected.

In awarding the general contracts for erection of the junior high schools, city council accepted by a vote of 20 to 2 a motion made by Mayor Pro Tem I. N. Ragsdale to a proposal passed April 2 by council requesting a city-wide referendum as to whether the junior high school system should be abolished.

Mayor Ragsdale vetoed the paper and called on members of council to vote on the referendum. In order to provide seats for students who are not admitted into the system next fall and thus avert an impending crisis regarding the ability of the school department to provide adequate room for the large influx of students expected.

Councilman George Lyle, of the eleventh ward, made a motion to pass the measure notwithstanding the mayor's veto, but failed to pass his measure before council when Alderman Charles Murphy, of the eleventh ward, made a substitute that the mayor's veto be filed.

Councilman Ellis B. Barrett, of the fifth ward, and Councilman George Lyle, of the twelfth ward, were the only two members to vote against the veto, which acted as an acceptance of the veto.

Alderman Pennington, Hartsfield, Dobbs, Buchanan and Williams, and Councilmen Turner and Johnson were not present at the vote.

The Fleming Construction company was given the general contract for the Bass project at a cost of $107,100; the Griffin Construction company the Brown for $180,257; and the Wagner company the O'Keefe school for $182,935. The Howard P. Foley company was awarded the electric contract on the three jobs for $53,799.07.

Mayor to Approve.

Mayor Ragsdale is expected to approve the contracts today and work will be begun within the next week, according to predictions Monday night.

Despite a hard fight on the Stout contract, proponents were able to pass the paper, tentatively at least, but it was held up on the reconsideration notice until the next regular meeting of council May 7.

Councilmen Barrett and Hardy and Alderman Robert E. Gann, of the sixth ward, directed their fire against the company on the grounds that the wage scale as set out by the company showed it did not intend to provide a high class of labor.

Alderman J. Allen Couch, of the fifth ward, and chairman of the school committee of city council, pleaded for passage of the resolutions on the theory that the children need the schools this fall and any delay in starting them may prevent their completion in time for occupancy.

Alderman William B. Hartsfield, of the third ward, attacked the stand taken by those members of council who decried the wage scale, declaring he thought he came to a meeting of the general council, representing the people of Atlanta, instead of to a union meeting. He contended that failure to award the contracts would serve to keep wages down for private contractors could hire men with out work cheaper than they could those with jobs.

A motion to refer the award back to the school committee of city council, which was made by Councilman Barrett, was lost by a vote of 30 to 2.

Vote on Award.

Vote on the award was Wardlaw.

Thought Island a Ship.

The fliers mistook the lighthouse on Greenly island for a sailing steamer and, thus accidentally discovered one of the most favorable landing places for their airplane Bremen on the Labrador coast, a message received here tonight by the Radio Corporation of America.

The message, sent by the officer in charge of the Point Amour radio station near Greenly island, was relayed to the Radio Corporation via the Canadian Marconi wireless at Montreal.

The message also revealed that damages to the Bremen were considerable and that the fliers hoped to take off from Greenly island possibly for New York, Wednesday.

The message revealed that while flying low over the Straits of Belle Isle last Friday afternoon the fliers saw what they believed to be a sailing steamer. They made for it, apparently hoping to get some bearing from the fishermen aboard.

But as they drew near to their objective they discovered it was not a steamer but instead was the lighthouse on ice-bound Greenly island.

Made Good Start.

By this time they were almost upon the lighthouse, they were so blinded by the driving snow and sleet.

At the same time they discovered their gasoline supply was almost exhausted and so they looked about for a favorable landing place, happy to know that if they could reach the lighthouse they would find at least one man to give them bearings.

Then they sighted the small lake, which was really only a pond, and they made a landing.

The crew, the Radio corporation's message revealed, was "rather exhausted by quite recovered after a short time."

A deceptively good start was made from the Irish coast, but always the stiff wind in their faces—it blows almost every day of the year from west to east in the north Atlantic.

Then in mid-Atlantic a gale, a lowering fog bank. The fliers tried the Lander's trick of taking their plane down close to the water, almost skimming the waves, to take advantage of the clear stratum of air there.

Fog and Snowstorm.

Still there was the wind in their faces, cutting their speed to miles per hour and eating up their fuel at a faster rate than they had planned even in their calculations of what would happen if bad weather was encountered.

The fog lifted somewhat into a haze, and the fliers hoped they were approaching a landing.

Then came more fog, blanket like, to cut off their view of everything but their plane itself, the tremendous roar of its low flying engines, futilely in the otherwise complete stillness.

On top of that came a snowstorm and ice began forming on the plane. Only a few minutes later the controls would have been necessary to jam them and leave the plane like a rudderless ship. It would have been a question of minutes before the plane plunged down. The wind, still of gale force, became vagrant, and blew the plane off her course—which way or how the crew could not tell. They were utterly lost, in fog, snow and wind, over a merciless sea. And their gas was giving out.

FITZMAURICE ARRIVES ON CANADIAN SOIL

men barely beat on her trans-Atlantic flight. But he arrived without incident.

It was impossible to try the return journey last night and so he remained at the scene. He had been prepared to take off all of the Bremen's crew, or two of them at least. But Koehl and Von Huenefeld refused in any circumstances, however, to leave their plane.

Are Repairing Plane.

They have collected a set of rough-and-ready tools from Lighthouse Keeper Jacques Le Temple, who has been a lookout at the station since they arrived. If, as they hope, they can repair her fully and get fuel of sufficiently high quality, they plan to fly to the express mail ship, which to heaven, Von Huenefeld had said as they started from Baldonnel flying field, Ireland, they were determined to go in their plane.

Messages Are Relayed.

The relay of verbal communication was becoming more and more difficult. Telegraphic communication, which has carried most of the Bremen's messages, has been damaged greatly by the storm. Messages are brief and garbled.

Baron von Huenefeld managed to get a message through to the German consul at Montreal, asking what facilities there were for landing, refueling, and taking off again in the vicinity.

Thought Island a Ship.

The fliers mistook the lighthouse on Greenly island for a sailing steamer and, thus accidentally discovered one of the most favorable landing places for their airplane Bremen on the Labrador coast, a message received here tonight by the Radio Corporation of America.

The message, sent by the officer in charge of the Point Amour radio station near Greenly island, was relayed to the Radio Corporation via the Canadian Marconi wireless at Montreal.

The message also revealed that damages to the Bremen were considerable and that the fliers hoped to take off from Greenly island possibly for New York, Wednesday.

The message revealed that while flying low over the Straits of Belle Isle last Friday afternoon the fliers saw what they believed to be a sailing steamer. They made for it, apparently hoping to get some bearing from the fishermen aboard.

But as they drew near to their objective they discovered it was not a steamer but instead was the lighthouse on ice-bound Greenly island.

Made Good Start.

By this time they were almost upon the lighthouse, they were so blinded by the driving snow and sleet.

At the same time they discovered their gasoline supply was almost exhausted and so they looked about for a favorable landing place, happy to know that if they could reach the lighthouse they would find at least one man to give them bearings.

Then they sighted the small lake, which was really only a pond, and they made a landing.

The crew, the Radio corporation's message revealed, was "rather exhausted by quite recovered after a short time."

A deceptively good start was made from the Irish coast, but always the stiff wind in their faces—it blows almost every day of the year from west to east in the north Atlantic.

Then in mid-Atlantic a gale, a lowering fog bank. The fliers tried the Lander's trick of taking their plane down close to the water, almost skimming the waves, to take advantage of the clear stratum of air there.

Fog and Snowstorm.

Still there was the wind in their faces, cutting their speed to miles per hour and eating up their fuel at a faster rate than they had planned even in their calculations of what would happen if bad weather was encountered.

The fog lifted somewhat into a haze, and the fliers hoped they were approaching a landing.

Then came more fog, blanket like, to cut off their view of everything but their plane itself, the tremendous roar of its low flying engines, futilely in the otherwise complete stillness.

On top of that came a snowstorm and ice began forming on the plane. Only a few minutes later the controls would have been necessary to jam them and leave the plane like a rudderless ship. It would have been a question of minutes before the plane plunged down. The wind, still of gale force, became vagrant, and blew the plane off her course—which way or how the crew could not tell. They were utterly lost, in fog, snow and wind, over a merciless sea. And their gas was giving out.

Gasoline Runs Out.

Finally they decided to land. What land it was they did not know except that it was not "Mitchell field or Heaven." So they kept on.

Four hours longer, together, they kept flying. Either they were hundreds of miles northward off their course or, with their falling navigational instruments, they had penetrated the ice that cracked ominously under them—and came to a halt at the end of a flight which may live long in aviation history. The lighthouse was in sight. They made for it, and were met by Le Temple, his keeper, as puzzled as were they in their arctic isolation. He greeted them with Gallic warmth, and there the real story of the flight came to its end—a Frenchman, two Germans and one Irishman, who 10 years ago would have been at each other's throats as combatants in a war scarcely more desperate than the Bremen's crew had won.

Mrs. Herman Koehl will board the ship there. Mrs. James Fitzmaurice, wife of the Irish member of the crew, will embark at Queenstown, Ireland, where the Dresden touches there Saturday.

CAPITAL STIRRED BY SMITH CLAIMS

tics' campaign and is being shaped for the convention with small regard for the known sentiments of the rank and file democrats in many of the states. Several senate and house leading democrats pointed out today that delegations are set down to sure things in the Smith column that are from states that are certainly safely democratic and yet known to be popularly opposed to Smith.

It was also pointed out that, with the exception of Louisiana, every state listed in the Smith column as certain to almost certainly a republican state; while all the states listed as certainly against his nomination, excepting Louisiana, are the only states that gave democratic electoral votes in 1920 and 1924. In other words, as one senator pointed out, Smith is to be nominated by hand-picked democrats from republican states and the southern states, which are the only ones that have kept the party from being nationally split, leaving not a trace behind, are not to have a look at the election.

There is a smoldering sense of the injustice of that situation evident here at the capital and grave fears are being expressed that the capital of the state, which is the seat of the most serious consequences and impel the future of the party.

MARTIN AMOROUS TO TAKE COTTON STAND.

Martin Amorous is here from Georgia to appear before the agricultural committees and testify concerning the cotton marketing problem. He is thoroughly conversant with cotton conditions in the south and is loaded to the brim with a knowledge of the cotton exchanges. His testimony is sure to be interesting and illuminating. Strong representations have been made to the committee that any legislation that would disintegrate the exchanges would be most damaging to the interests of the cotton producers of the south. It is alleged that the brokers and speculators draw into the cotton trade the immense capital needed to handle the crop between growers and consumers. To run their capital out of the trade would leave a vacuum that the bankers and exporters would not be willing to fill.

CONGRESS SYMPATHIZES WITH LARSEN.

General sympathy was expressed by members of congress and of the Georgia colony in Washington with Congressman Larsen in the loss of his wife. The congressman and his consort have had popular esteem here in official and social circles and most of the Georgia society feel his bereavement as personal to themselves.

GEORGE RETURNS FROM TOUR.

Senator George returned today from his tour that carried him to North Carolina and to Tulsa, in Oklahoma. He enjoyed meeting the people of those states and from accounts reaching here from the places where he appeared the Georgia statesman made a strong impression upon his hearers as a publicist of vision and courageous convictions.

DEMOCRATS MAP OUT PROGRAM.

The democrats in congress are beginning to develop a program relating to pending legislation in important measures upon which the republicans are divided. The democratic leaders are several large openings through which they can throw monkey wrenches that will prevent the smooth running of the republican machine. They will aid the insurgents to pad bills as to provoke presidential vetoes. In that way the administration will stand discredited before the country and the people in the corn and wheat regions, and in the forest areas, be incited to take revenge upon the regular republican party. The democrats will not incur the charge of defeating democratic relief legislation, but will not be awfully anxious to make what is enacted entirely satisfactory to the Coolidge-Hoover wing of the incumbent party.

with an eye single to public service, we shall leave the conduct of our private business with the individual, where it belongs, and not undertake to unload it on the government."

Secretary of War Davis, following the president, devoted his entire talk to preparedness.

"There is nothing strange, mysterious nor sinister about preparedness," he said. "Preparedness is only forethought combined with common sense."

"There is a type of military preparedness, the very antithesis of that of aggression—a preparedness which seeks only national security; a preparedness which promotes peace, not war; a preparedness purely defensive in character. Such is the preparedness we strive for in the United States."

"Our country was purchased at a great price," he said. "It has been held intact through costly adventures and the beneficiaries are not privileged at this time to barter away its rights or reduce its market value."

but he produced some exceptional results. Three of these scored tremendous hits. These were Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel," Meyerbeer's "Le Prophete" and Bellini's "Norma." (Of this trio "Hansel and Gretel" will be sung in Atlanta Wednesday afternoon of opera week, and "Norma" will be sung Friday night.)

The reports of their success of these revivals showed that Mr. Gatti understands them thoroughly and did them fine justice in their production. While in Atlanta Mr. Gatti will be the guest of Harry M. Atkinson, mer.

president of the Atlanta Music Festival association, and will be the central figure in several social affairs. The Metropolitan company ended its season in New York Saturday night and this week the stage crew is busy packing the settings for the nine operas to be offered here next week. The stars also are preparing for the annual southern trek. The singers, members of the ballet, musicians and stage crew will come to Atlanta on special trains.

Coffin for the past three days, was the principal speaker this afternoon at a meeting of the Young Men's club, held in his honor and which was attended by a number of its prominent guests, including Joseph Heintzmann, of Cincinnati, several times mayor of that city.

Mr. Dunlop made one of the most interesting addresses on agriculture ever heard in this city. He first discussed the farming situation in the United States in general, and stated that the time had come when a farmer who expects to be successful, must also be a business man and that the farmer was gradually taking that lesson home in all parts of the country.

The speaker brought out that there was more money invested in farming in the United States than there was in manufacturing, mining and railroads combined and that they contribute one-eighth of our exports and pay one-fifth of the entire tax of the country.

Turning his attention to the local situation, Mr. Dunlop said that diversification was the salvation of the southern farmer. He applauded the hog, hen and cow movement in Georgia and said if the south would change to a certain extent the views, it would really have prosperous farmers.

SOCIALISTS CHOOSE STANDARD BEARERS

New York, April 10.—(U)—Norman Thomas, of New York, and James Hudson, of Reading, Pa., were nominated today by the socialist party as its candidates for president and vice president, respectively, in the November election.

Prolonged cheering by delegates was heard after both men were nominated by acclamation at the party's five-day convention at Finnish Hall

Both men have been long identified with the socialist movement, Thomas as the party's candidate for state and city office in New York, and Maurer as a veteran member of its national committee.

Thomas already has been a socialist candidate three times for public office and has worked for socialism throughout his career as a Protestant clergy-

He was defeated as the socialist candidate for governor of New York in 1924, and as socialist candidate for Mayor of New York in 1925, and lost for alderman here last year.

He has written several books on war and has served in editorial positions on magazines.

Maurer, a shoemaker's son, who started work at the age of nine after less than two years' attendance at

Thomas was arrested while speaking in support of the workers during the 1926 textile strike in Passaic, N. J. He was charged with inciting to riot and unlawful assemblage, but the grand jury failed to indict him. His views on pacifism brought him into conflict with Rear Admiral C. V. Ransdell.

Charles E. Plunkett, retired, at a recent parley on war at Wesleyan university at Middletown, Conn., where Admiral Plunkett denounced some of the Thomas' addresses as "bolshhevik highbrow stuff."

Tampa, April 16.—(P)—Dr. Sumter L. Lowry, commander-in-chief of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, today honored seven southern women with appointments to high positions for the annual Confederate reunion, to be held at Little Rock, Ark., May 8 to 11. # Crackers Drop Second Straight Mobile in 10 Innings, 5-4

Pence Allows Only 8 Hits During Affray

Crackers Outfit Mobile, Getting Nine, But Are Unable To Hold Lead.

Mobile, Ala., April 16.—(Special.) Coming from behind and overcoming a two-run lead, the Mobile Bears, present leaders of the Southern league, made it two straight over Atlanta's Crackers here this afternoon. The score at the end of 10 innings was 5 and 4.

A lucky infield hit by Manager Milton Stock, pinch hitting for Pitcher Friday, who had relieved Morton at the end of the seventh, a single through short that was left open when Mills went over to cover second, Zoller's error on this same ball, a two-base hit in right by Kimmick off Dudley, who relieved Russell Pence after Narlesky's blow, Gilbert's lead, a fielder's choice and a pinch single by Dutch Welch gave Mobile three runs and enough to win the ball game. The Crackers had previously won the 2-1 in the ninth on a lucky triple in right by Rhlei and Angley's fourth hit, a single to left field.

Holds Bears.
Spence, who has won Atlanta's only ball game this season, held Mobile to four hits and two runs for nine and one-third innings. Rhlei's error in the seventh paying the way for Mobile to score their two runs. The Bears, after having the game won 2-1 in the ninth with two down, made the mistake of pitching to Angley with a runner on third, the visiting catcher scoring his men with a single.

Mobile sent Guy Morton, veteran right hander to the mound, and he played in his usual luck. A base hit being made good for two bases when Welch booted Angley's first hit in the second inning. Rhlei scored ahead of him. Manager Stock moved Morton in the seventh for a pinch hitter and Ray Friday, former Louisville American association pitcher, finished the game.

Pence's mound work made the Crackers' one run look like a million to the Mobile club until the breaks went against him in the seventh inning. Welch in this frame went safe when Rhlei failed to field his grounder. Niehaus sent a ball into left through an opening at third. Eggert Mills, Welch racing to third. Eggert drew a walk to fill the bases. Welch scored while Mills was throwing out Cousineau at first. Niehaus went out in a chase when Oldham, pinching for Morton, grounded to Poole, Eggert taking third. Eggert stole home on Pence and Angley to give Mobile the lead.

The Crackers came back in the ninth and tied the game with two out. Rhlei's high fly ball in short right behind first base dropped away from Niehaus and Eggert and the batter reached third. Angley slapped a single to left to score him.

The visitors received another break in the tenth when Pence, first man up, reached first on Kimmick's boot of his hot grounder. Zoller sacrificed the Crackers pitcher to second. Poole skied to Mizner for the second out. Gilbert's fly dropped safe out of reach of Welch and Pence crossed. Mills caught a single into left field through a hole made possible when Narlesky went over to cover second. Mizner fumbling the ball long enough for Gilbert to score.

It looked like the Crackers' game when the Bears came to the bat in the tenth and Cousineau, the first man up, lived to hit, but it was not to be. A stock went in to bat for Friday and a hopper he hit at Rhlei took a bad bound and went for a hit. Narlesky singled to left and Zoller bled out the ball. Stock reaching third and the batter scored. Acting Manager Smith called Pence from the mound and sent in Dudley. Rhlei doubled to right, scoring Stock and Narlesky. Shaner went safe when Gilbert booted his grounder. Mizner sent safe when Shaner booted his throw of the Bear's left fielder's grounder to second. With the bases full, Welch slashed a single into left field, scoring Kimmick to end the game.

Pitcher Sherrod Smith had been placed in charge of the team during the illness of Manager Niehoff, who is suffering from a heavy cold that he contracted after reaching Mobile. He was still confined to his room, but will probably be out with the team tomorrow.

Angley was the big stick man in today's games with a double and three singles out of four times up and all three were hard hit balls. Gilbert connected safely twice, one of his blows being a two-base hit.

Smith will work for the Crackers in the game today while Glaxner will pitch for Mobile.

Be SPORTLIGHT

As for Thrills—

Those who think that golf lacks the thrills which accompany some other keener competitive sport, such as boxing or football, should ask Johnny Farrell what he thinks of that last round at La Gorce, won nearly a month old, with $5,000 swinging in the balance. The broad grin that leaps at once to Johnny's open countenance is answer enough. "I may win bigger championships," he said, "but that's one round I'll never forget. It is one round that happens in a golfer's lifetime—he is lucky. To be a stroke back and to know your leading opponent stepped out in 30 for the first time, and there hung $5,000 in the air—to know a 65 would only tie for first place. Figure the rest out for yourself. It's one of those things that never can happen again."

All of which leads up to Farrell's chance in the next open, one event he has never won. He has proved his skill and his nerve under a strain—a $5,000 strain, to be exact—but they have never rolled smoothly for the young Irishman where he wanted most to win. Johnny has won more big tournaments in the last two years than any other golfer—eight in a row for one stretch—but touch and timing in golf come and go and come again so quickly that no one can be sure of top form on any given day or two. Golf in this respect is entirely different from boxing, football and tennis, and this applies especially to the short game touch, that is as elusive as a will-o'-the-wisp in a midnight swamp. Now you have it, and then it's gone, and Socrates couldn't figure out the reason.

The Elusive Factor.
Timing is a more delicate affair in golf than in any other game, yet it remains an elusive matter in every game played. I recall asking Christy Mathewson one day what he thought the difference was in the problem of timing between pitching and golf.

"If I have a three or four day rest," he said, "and my arm feels tight, I can usually pitch the ball about where I want it. They may hit it harder one day than another, but there will be almost no difference in my speed or timing. In golf, however, it has been overworked. But I've never been able to figure why I could putt like a champion one day and two days later couldn't push the ball into a barrel. I can usually tell what sort of ball game I will pitch. I have no idea from one day to another what sort of golf game I will play, and the way I feel has nothing to do with it. Some of my worst games come when I feel in perfect condition and am confident of playing well."

Tunney and Timing.
Gene Tunney had about the same idea of boxing and golf. Late last summer Tunney knew when he was going to win a fight, and he showed it. He knew when to ease off and just how much work to do in order to be at his best against Dempsey. He had trained in such a way that he felt his nervous system was perfectly focused late in the afternoon of the big fight.

"Why is it different in golf?" he asked. "I never have any idea how I am going to play. I may not feel like playing and suddenly find I am hitting the ball better than ever. I may feel fit to step out and break an 80 and wind up with a 94 where once in a while I am more of an ad-venturer in this way than any game I ever heard of. What you do on Monday has no connection whatever with what you may do on Wednesday. Why is it?"

About 2,500 professionals and about 1,000,000 stars and dubs and duffers are grip spreading about the California fair, plaintive query for a long time. And no answer comes from the hills or valleys, the fairways or the bunkers or the rough. Only a mocking silence.

I asked Charley Paddock about the 100-meter race in the last Olympic.

"It was Abraham's day," he said. "On that day he was the class of the field, and he knew it. He knew he may have beaten him a week back or a week later, but he also knew on that one day he was at the peak, and that nothing could hurt him. He got the jump at about forty yards, and no one could draw up. If any one had, I am sure he would have got the jump again to beat this world's record. If he had been pressed, Running is that way. You can suddenly tell when you are right and ready to go. And you can tell when you are not right, just as well."

"What about golf?" I asked.

"At which point a large and expensive grip spread across the California fair."

"When I think I'm all fit to beat my best score," he said, "I am near my worst. And it sometimes works the other way. The only thing any one can be sure of in golf is that anything can happen either way. Out on the coast I've seen the best pros turn in a 68 or a 70 in one tournament and a few days later drop back to fifteen with a place with a 78 or a 79."

The Great Adventure.
So golf seems to be the great adventure in sport, where no one can tell what day will bring forth, and no feeling of form is any sure indication of what will take place.

It has many of the elements of roulette, where thousands think they have a system, only to see it suddenly break apart with a melancholy crash. Why doesn't some scientist probe for the germ that seems to direct the destinies of a given afternoon?

BY BEN COTHRAN.

The boys supposed to know about such things will tell you that Stiles Attaway is getting his "big shot" tonight.

In the vernacular of the ring, the "big shot" supposedly takes place when a pugilistic young gentleman of some note works his way up to fighting in a ring center with the mercenary attractions such as New York can offer.

But far be it from anyone to accuse young Attaway of fighting in New York tonight, nor will he be remunerated by any such sum of money tonight that he would get for appearing in a Gotham ring.

Attaway, tonight at the Atlanta theater, is meeting an experienced piece of ring machinery grinding along under the name of Tiller "Kid" Herman, a 165-pounder who has fought some of the good ones, some of the mediocre ones, some of the bad ones, and when you put them all together you find that he has fought a number of them.

Dempsey Sparring Mate.

Not only that, he has served well as sparring partner of a certain Mr. J. Dempsey, this last occurring just prior to the first embroglio involving Messrs. Dempsey and Tunney.

Eddie Hanlon, ex-fighter and manager of young Attaway, has been carefully building the lad up, patiently biding his time with the hopes of working his youngster into the game in New York, the ultimate goal of the thousands of boys and men engaged over these United States in providing citizens of this country with fine entertainment.

Attaway has improved steadily and fought some of the best this section of the country can offer. Tonight, in meeting Herman, he is meeting the most worthy ringman yet procured as an opponent.

"Big Shot."

And so the wise boys are saying that a victory for Attaway tonight will be big step towards getting into the "big time" that his "big shot" comes tonight.

Herman, in his wanderings about the country has, of course, absorbed a great amount of punching. Especially when he was in Dempsey's camp, it may be that he is worn out. His record, however, doesn't show it, and he isn't being brought into Atlanta with any idea of being a "set-up" for Attaway.

The management of tonight's bout will be sadly mistaken if the affair turns out as it did last Friday a week ago when Tommy Billiards was bumped off by Attaway in the third round. They had hoped that Billiards would be a good test for Attaway.

Attaway isn't a finished boxer yet. He is strong, tough, and young. He has improved greatly within the last year. He and Herman tonight will scale in as light heavies.

Eddie Hanlon constantly avers that he has a champion in Attaway. Fight managers are always saying that. But after watching Attaway fight one usually becomes convinced that the youngster has a punch. He punches and in return has been punched. The latter he has withstood very well.

* Slip.

Not everyone claims a victory tonight for the tough young man from Gainesville. Herman may slip and polish him off very neatly. But that will have to be seen tonight. Meantime, the boys claim that Attaway is getting his "big shot" tonight.

You had best make your way to the Atlanta theater tonight around the hour of 8:30 o'clock and find out for yourself.

Matchmaker James Mayson has busted himself in assembling a very good bunch of preliminaries to back up the main bout between Attaway and Herman, which will be over the 10-round route.

An eight-round semi-windup affair will bring together Marshall Cardwell and a boxer of some promise from LaGrange, Ga., and Wingo Robinson, of Cleveland. Robinson is pretty old for the ring, but he still knows a few things and can put up a fair fight.

* Six-Rounders.

In a brace of six-rounders, Mayson has young Carver meeting Spencer Carter in the one and Jimmy Ritchie against Jimmy Abbott in the

PETE GAVUZZI STRENGTHENS BUNION LEAD

Tulsa, Okla., April 16.—(P)—Forty-three days out of Los Angeles, and with approximately half of the distance to New York covered, the 70-old cross-country marathons camped here tonight with Peter Gavuzzi, Southampton, England, winner of today's lap from Bristol. He also is the leader in elapsed time.

Little more than a day away from Claremore, Okla., his home town, Andrew Gavuzzi, Oklahoma's entrant, was unable to meet the Britisher's challenge, and fell more than an hour behind in elapsed time.

Gavuzzi ground out the 41.7 miles today in 4 hours, 47 minutes, his elapsed time being 2:50:43.00. Payne, finished third in 5:39:25, with the elapsed time of 2:71:47:29. Giusto Umek, Italian champion, came in second in 5:28:20, his elapsed time being 3:24:37:50.

Payne, openly irritated at the home-state reception which has proved somewhat bothersome, today attempted to dodge cheering crowds that lined the roadway. At the finish line the mildly chided the enthusiastic spectators, saying "I'm just one of the bunch. I wish they would let me rest a bit."

Harry Hays, of Long Beach, Calif., finished fourth in 5:48:20, elapsed time 3:15:34:12.

PETRELS BOW TO DAVIDSON OUTFIT, 7 TO 6

Concord, April 16.—A ringing double from the bat of McConnell in the Davidson bat team finished the plate to give the Davidson college Wild Cats a 7 to 6 victory over the Oglethorpe Petrels here this afternoon.

Both teams had on their hitting clothes, keeping the score uncertain until the last frame.

McConnell stood at the head of the Davidson batters, connecting with safety five times in as many turns at the plate. The Wild Cats shelved Oglethorpe's hurler, Lawson, for 15 swings.

Wall and Laird did the heavy hitting for the Georgians, each getting two hits. Wall drove a home run over the leftfield fence in the sixth with one man on base. Melvin, pitching for the Cats, gave up ten bingles.

That is just exactly what these boys are. They represent the Hillsborough High school, of Tampa, on the cinder path and were anxious to compete in the annual Tech relays held here Saturday, so they hopped in a big plane and took off for Atlanta and the big track and field meet. This is the

THE GUMPS—ALL IS FAIR IN LOVE, ETC.

Three Generations

By WARWICK DEEPIING

Conrad Pybus, accompanied by a fashionable young woman, drives down from London to Castle Graven. They go to the Saracen's Head for lunch, and alighting from the car Conrad recognizes with a shock the porter who opens the door for them. No size of recognition passes between the two men.

INSTALLMENT II. LUNCHEON IS SPOILED.

That he as a man should sit calmly down to lunch after cutting his own father was beyond Mr. Conrad Pybus' capacity. Obviously he was not himself, or rather—he was not much himself. He had reverted—and without realizing his reversion—to the little barbarisms of the struggling thirties when he had sufficed with life in his shirt sleeves.

Moreover he was so very conscious of Lady Ursula sitting opposite him at the little table in a recess by the window. A card with "Reserved" printed upon it remained propped against a vase full of purple and white asters. Yes, she too was so confoundedly reserved, such a woman of elevation and of quality, poised like Diana before his moon-faced homage. For the last three months he had been trying so hard to place himself on some sort of feeling of equality with her, to impress her, to realize himself as Conrad Pybus, Esq., of Chislehurst.

Then—consider the immoderate obstinacy of that absurd old man! How could a fellow have foreseen such a damnable coincidence? To hear yourself saying, "Hello, dad," to a little old fellow who cleaned the boots, and saying it in the presence of that most elusive and ironic goddess, Eternity—it wasn't as though he had been attempting to do something for the old curmudgeon.

The head waiter was standing at Mr. Conrad's elbow.

"Take that card away."

"Certainly, sir."

"I ordered lunch by wire—a special lunch."

"Yes, sir. I know all about it, sir. The wine is in ice."

George of the Saracen's Head had a soothing voice, and a sleepy, humorous eye. He knew his world. Obviously the gentleman was in a fractions mood, being the kind of gentleman who raised his voice and made a fuss when things were not going well. George's sleepy eye observed the lady. She was putting one of the asters in place with an air of doing what came natural to her. Her face had the glimmer of an inward smile.

That something had upset him was as obvious to her as his countenance. She wondered what it was.

"Don't you find it very hot in here?"

He did. He was perspiring. He expended a further portion of his heat upon the waiter.

"Open that window—will you?"

"Certainly, sir."

The window was opened, but he continued to give her the impression of a man lunching in a London grill room on a hot August day. She surmised that the salad would be flat, and it was. And again he expended more heat upon the waiter, quite unnecessary heat.

"Beastly lunch—I'm afraid. I'm sorry."

She assured him that the lunch was excellent. But what had upset him? Not that she asked the question. She had ceased from wishing to ask Conrad Pybus any questions. She had become too conscious of his incoherencies. He continued to remain in a heat of frettings and apologies, and while applying the coolness of her voice to the fevered forehead of the conversation, she considered Conrad Pybus as a social specimen. His restiveness seemed to increase. Frowning over his Stilton he actually missed a remark of hers.

"Wonder if you'd excuse me a moment. I'm a bit doubtful about the petrol."

"Of course."

"My chap's a careless idiot. There's a petrol pump in the yard. I'll get the fellow in charge to fill me up."

"Please do."

He placed an open cigarette case in front of her, but forgot the matches.

"Won't be a minute."

She smiled at his departing back.

Mr. Conrad Pybus appeared in the hall of the Saracen's Head rather with the air of a man who had pocketed some of the table silver and was determined that no one should know it. He strolled. He lit a cigar. He had come out in search of the little old man with the big white head and the black alpaca jacket, but the father of Probyn and Conrad Pybus had gone to his dinner.

He took the passage leading to the old coaching yard where the blue car stood in the shade of a high wall, and as he emerged into the yard he saw a little figure crossing it. The son removed the cigar from between his thickish lips.

"Here—I say—one moment . . ."

John Pybus paused, turned, and looked at his son.

"Did you call, sir?"

Mr. Conrad strolled heavily across the cobbles. He was very conscious of that gray, resolute face with its inexpressible blue eyes. As a man of the world and a man of business—big business—he would have chosen to wink at his father, but then . . . you might just as well have winked at Jehovah.

"I say, just a moment . . ."

His voice intimated. It suggested a smooth, yet stealthy gesture. The yard appeared deserted.

"Just a moment . . ."

Old Pybus seemed to stand very square on his heels.

"I say, just a moment . . ."

And he went on and by his son, looking up slantwise into his face like a veteran marching past some very young general who had seen no red blood spilled.

Old John Pybus' father—Peter Paul Pybus—whom someone had nicknamed "Cato of Booksellers' Row," had, as a counterblast against his own parents' partiality for apostolic names, christened his own son John Julian Apostolus. In associating his son with the Emperor Julian—called the Apostate—he had defied both his wife and society. Peter Paul had relented so far as to allow the "John," for as Mrs. Mary had asserted, "How could a boy go to a Christian school labeled Julian Apostolus?" Peter Paul had agreed that it would not be fair to the child, and that a good, stout simple name should be added as a sort of handle.

Peter Paul Pybus had had a shop in Booksellers' Row. Boys from the city schools had come to Mr. Pybus for second-hand copies of Ovid and Thucydides, but they had been obliged to go elsewhere for their eribs, for Mr. Pybus had held strong views upon education and had refused to pander to the lazy. A little, brown, snuffy shop in the very narrow part of the street, it had had a certain reputation with collectors of first editions. The reputation of Peter Paul Pybus. Packed full of literary gossip, obtained from heaven knows where, he had taken an interest in all the literary scandals and sensations of two generations.

One of John Julian's early recollections was of a certain shop that was opened in the Row, directly opposite the bookshop of Peter Paul. John was 15 at the time, and the shop had puzzled him. It offered you French novels of a sort, and queer little boxes of artificial sweets. It was a surreptitious shop, and people peered into it surreptitiously. It attracted the schoolboys who came to buy schoolbooks. John Julian would sometimes catch two or three of them sniggering outside it and waiting for some other boy who had sneaked in to buy photographs.

John remembered asking his father about that shop, and his father's frozen face, and the rasp of his voice.

"There isn't any such shop, sir."

"But—there is. Haven't you been across . . .?"

"Dog's vomit, by lad. Step over it. I say there is no such shop."

And for Peter Paul Pybus there was not. He had a habit of mind that was Cromwellian, and he passed on a part of it to his son.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn To Entertain Prominent Opera Visitors

Added to the list of prominent visitors who will contribute interest and gaiety to the series of brilliant opera festivities are the names of Mrs. Charles Wright, of Detroit, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sullivan, of Indianapolis, Ind., who arrive Saturday to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Glenn at their home on Myrtle street.

A round of lovely social affairs, both of a formal and an informal nature, will revolve around this trio of visitors who will be distinguished figures in the opera audiences each evening and also at the matinee performances.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn will entertain a group of friends in compliment to their guests at the elaborate opera ball to be given Wednesday evening, April 25, at the Piedmont Driving Club. Covers will be placed for fifteen guests.

A number of other parties are being planned honoring Mrs. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan, the dates to be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. Haden Honor Mrs. Pennybacker.

Fish Straight from the Ocean to Your Table!

ALWAYS FRESH—NEVER FROZEN

YOU can now enjoy choice ocean fish that is absolutely fresh. You can have prime deep-sea haddock—fish as sweet and tender and tasty as ever tumbled out of a net.

"40-Fathom" is the trade name of fish which is caught by the Bay State Fishing Company's big fleet of steam trawlers, far out in the ocean. Each catch is carefully sorted and only the choicest fish are selected for your table.

40-Fathom Haddock comes to you in the form of fillets—the clear white breasts and sides of the fish. Heads, tails, backbones and all waste are removed. Then these savory fish steaks are individually wrapped in parchment paper, sealed and fast-expressed to your dealer.

Ready to put on the fire and cook. A new, delicious shore delicacy on your table, whether you live near the sea or far inland.

Nothing is so unwise as buying second-grade fillets. Ask your butcher, grocer or fish dealer for 40-Fathom Fish, which is never frozen or preserved but always fresh and sweet—"the cream of the catch".—Bay State Fishing Company, 30 Fish Pier, Boston.

—Old Mother Nature.

"Well," said Peter Rabbit, "I suppose that Shelly the Armadillo, down there in the Tropics, doesn't do much worrying, seeing that he has such a fine protective coat. I suppose such enemies as he might have leave him alone, just as Prickly Porky's leave him alone. In other words, I suppose he really hasn't any enemies. I envy people like Prickly Porky and Shelly the Armadillo."

Prickly Porky, who was close by, grunted. "Don't think, Peter Rabbit," said he, "that just because I carry a thousand little spears I am left alone. More than once Buster Bear, Luna the Panther and Tuffy the Lynx have tried to get me. If any one of them could have turned me on my back I would have been helpless. Very likely this Shelly, which Scraper has been telling about, has enemies smart enough to at last try to get the best of him."

"As to that, I can't say," replied Scraper. "I've only seen him a few times, for he prefers to come out after dark."

"I've seen him many times," said Boomer the Nighthawk, "and it is just as you say, Prickly Porky. He has enemies in spite of his coat of shell. And, like you, he would be helpless if they could get him stretched on his back. You see, that shell doesn't cover him underneath. I remember once I was sure that I never would see Shelly again."

"Well," replied Boomer, "it was just after darkness had begun to set in, and I was out for a good reason. I was just over the jungle. It wasn't too dark to see, but it was dark enough to bring the night-loving folk out of their hiding places. I happened to be sitting on a log right on the edge of the jungle. I saw Shelly the Armadillo come out of his hole and start off to hunt for his dinner. He was moving along slowly and those big ears of his were wagging. He has a funny way of wagging those ears. He was attending to his own business and not paying any attention to anybody else. After a time he got some distance from his hole. Yes, he was just moving away from his hole. Then I saw something moving in the shadows. It was hardly more than a shadow itself. At first I didn't think anything about it. Then I noticed that it was creeping. Yes, it was creeping. It wasn't shy."

"The next story: 'How Shelly Reached His Hole.'"

"What is an Ocelot?" demanded Peter.

"A member of the Cat family," spoke up Scraper the Kingbird. "Beauty is one of the smaller members of the Cat family and one of the handsomest. That is why he is called 'Beauty.'"

"He was quite clear," continued Boomer, "that Beauty was after Shelly the Armadillo. He was trying to creep up on him and surprise him. Probably he intended to turn him over on his back. But, some one warned Shelly just in the nick of time. He jumped straight up in the air in the funniest 'ump you ever saw.' The moment he touched the ground again he started to run, and I can tell you, Peter Rabbit, that Shelly could give you a good race. I didn't suppose he had so much speed in him. Beauty the Ocelot was after him at once. Then began a game of dodge. All the time Shelly was trying to get to his hole."

"He was almost there when Beauty pounced on him, but, of course, Beauty couldn't dig his claws into that hard shell. His claws just slid right off. It was then that I saw how well protected Shelly the Armadillo is. He instantly curled up in a ball. There was no chance for Beauty to throw him on his back. Beauty did his best to make Shelly unroll, but he couldn't do it."

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

BY ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.

YOUTH'S CONTRIBUTION DAY.
Is Life Worth Living?

I am all fed up on life. I am not such a darn fool that I don't know I have reached that fool age (17) of selfishness and egotism and therefore may possibly get a few more experiences in life which will straighten me out. But as I feel now I am through. Through with everything—religion, school and girls.

I don't take the Christian religion seriously. I am not exactly an atheist but I cannot believe in the philosophy of life as constructed by the Bible. It has been riddled by science and common sense. However, I do not scoff at it nor sneer at people who seriously believe in it. That's something to my credit, I suppose.

The only thing that keeps me alive is my interest in my father and mother and sister. I wouldn't raise a family for anything because I don't want to pass on my existence to anyone else. I have had enough of it and what's the use of handing it over to somebody else.

Sometimes I feel I would like to be a writer, but what is ambition anyway but just a selfish expression of one's self.

I have fallen in and out of love several times, but so far I have kept clean and yet what difference does that make when you read about Benjamin Franklin and a lot of other prominent men?

To tell the truth, Doc, I am now on the deadline. I've either got to go on and go through college and occupy myself with being a success and thus obtain peace of mind or I've got to take a step that will hasten something that is going to come anyway. Do you advise me to see the world and see other phases of life before ending this one?

HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR.
Some people are happy, my young friend, because they don't know any better. (They are lucky.) Others are happy because they are so almighty busy that they have no time to think about being unhappy. Others are happy because they fool themselves into thinking they are happy. Still others are happy because they have figured out the philosophy of life which brings them some peace of mind. And a few would be unhappy most of the time if they stopped to think about it, but they keep very busy doing things which help others and believe that service covers a multitude of sins.

WINNERS OF 18
HIGHEST AWARDS

When I was around your age I used to have some of the "spells" you apparently have now. I went around with a "nobody loves me" and "I'm going to eat a green worm" sort of look until I ran across a girl friend to whom I was anxious to tell my tale of woe. I did not get as much sympathy as I expected. All I got was this: "Go home and take a bath, put on your best clothes and go out on the street and do good to someone."

I was so mad, my young friend, that I actually went home, took a bath, put on my best clothes and walked out of the house with the intention of doing just the opposite thing suggested by my unsympathetic young lady friend. Behold, standing on the street corner was a blind man with only one leg, tapping the curb stone to call attention to someone who would take him across the busy street. I helped him across and gave him every cent I had in my pocket. He said, "I am no beggar."

I replied, "I know it, my friend, but you have saved my life."
Now look here, my boy, you have a chance to go to college. You are very fond of reading (as a matter of fact you have read too much and yet you have not read enough.) You have thought a lot and yet you have not thought enough. You know a lot and yet you do not know enough. I will agree with you that you ought to see the world and see another phase of this world before forever ending this one. You will find that there are other phases of the world right next door to the present world in which you are living, and every day there will be new phases of this old world until you pass out naturally.

You say you are fed up. Yes, you are, you have indigestion, mentally at least, and I am not sure but perhaps physically as well. Your physical liver may be off as well as your mental one. It is true, as you hinted in your letter, that there are a great many educated boys who are all fed up with life. You and they have read enough science to discard religion but have not read enough science to get a religion. You have read enough about love and marriage to get a wrong slant, but you have not met the girl who will sweep you off your feet and make you forget all the rot you have read. You are fed up on books and your mind goes round and round in an endless circle and you haven't reached the time nor place in life when real problems, real vocational problems, real life problems will force you to project your mind to actual situations.

I would not take away all the things you have, but I would add a lot more. And so you will.

DIET AND HEALTH

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

WHITE BREAD VS. GRAHAM BREAD.

I was having lunch with a friend I hadn't met for years. As I took a roll made of white flour, she burst out with, "Why, Doctor, how can you eat anything made of white flour? Don't you, of all people, know that white flour, polished rice, etc., are poisonous?"

As her notion is fairly widespread, I want to point out the fallacy of the idea. White bread, polished rice, white sugar, and other highly refined products, are not poisonous. It is true that they have been largely demineralized and de-vitaminized, but they are still good food, and will not poison in the slightest degree, unless they are taken in such excess that not enough other foods which would supply their deficiencies, could be taken. However, if liberal amounts of fruits and vegetables and the proper amounts of milk, eat and eggs are taken, there is no reason why those who like white bread and polished rice should not take them, if they want them.

Another count against the excess consumption of white bread, polished rice and other purified products, is that they leave an acid-ash. But for that matter, so do all grains, whole or refined. The diet should have a preponderance of the alkaline foods—fruits, nuts, milk and vegetables. (We have an article on Balanced Diet, which goes into other phases of the diet. You may have this by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and two cents in coin to me, care of this paper.)

While we're talking about this acid-ash phase, I think I'll bring in that many would be benefited if they took potatoes instead of bread with their meals, for potatoes leave an alkaline residue. Especially those who are suffering from a tendency to acidosis, high blood pressure, the gouty, the rheumatic, and the nephritic.

I think that undoubtedly it is better for children to have the whole grain breads and cereals, for they need so much energy for fuel food that it is wise to have this principle of their diet also contain the vitamins and mineral elements which they also need in great amounts.

Many people who suffer from ordinary constipation should also have the whole grain breads and cereals.

But those of you who have the idea that refined products are poisonous in themselves, as my friend had, should revise it.

W. wants to know why it is that as a rule the beards of men do not turn gray until some time after the scalp hair does?

It is possible that it is because the face is better supplied with blood vessels than the scalp. When you want to remember that the beard is 16 or 18 years younger than the scalp hair, I don't know whether this has anything to do with it or not. Probably the first reason is the real reason.

One of the ways to keep the hair in good condition is to brush the scalp every day—once a week won't do—for five minutes or so. We have an article which goes into the subject more in detail. Send for it. (See articles in the first part of this article.)

MRS. G.—No, a 100-calorie portion of oil is no more fattening than a 100-calorie portion of lettuce. A calorie is a calorie, no matter in what food it hides itself. However, 100 calories of oil is represented by but one-half ounce (one moderate tablespoonful), and 100 calories of lettuce means about 20 ounces. You see, the weight of lettuce is mostly water. Good water; fine water. But water is not fattening.

Tomorrow: Answers to Correspondents' notes. Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the columns, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and two cents in coin for each article to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, 10 cents in coin with fully s. a. s. e. must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

ganization and for the past year assistant to the president, has just arrived in Atlanta and assumed the management of the local branch of the company.

Mr. Humphrey, who lived here from 1905 to 1911, arrived in the city last Saturday, driving in his car from Detroit. A native of Tennessee, he stopped for two days in Nashville en route, taking up his duties Monday morning as manager of the local General Motors Truck corporation branch at 231 Ivy street.

Engaged in the automotive business for many years, Mr. Humphrey enjoys a distinctive record of executive service. He was in San Antonio, Texas, for two years as road man for the Ford branch there at the same time that P. W. Seiler, now president of the General Motors Truck corporation, was manager of the branch.

During the war Mr. Humphrey served as lieutenant in the flying corps and later became sales manager for the Termosted Manufacturing company of Detroit, hardware division of the Fisher Body corporation. He then came to the local branch of the corporation, becoming assistant to the president.

Mr. Humphrey's territory as manager of the local branch will include Georgia and practically all of Florida. He now is renewing old friendships made during his stay here ending in 1911.

Chief's Office Shares In Police Headquarters Spring Cleaning Program

Chief of Police James L. Beavers has a new desk. This fact was discovered Monday by daring reporters who braved the perils of spring cleaning at the police station, and penetrated as far as the chief's office.

The police station has been in the general process of spring cleaning for some weeks, the detective bureau's walls having been repainted a nice light color after having been buried under the dust for some years.

The chief's office has been remodelled so as to provide more space for the desk force. And in the chief's private sanctum he is to be found sitting behind, not the old almost obsolete high top type with the pigeon holes, but a new, modern flat top desk with a huge vase of flowers on it.

And underneath is also an innovation—new cork linoleum instead of the old dirt-collecting rug.

VETERANS' DRIVE GETS UNDER WAY

Opening guns in the campaign to raise $50,000 as Atlanta's quota of the $200,000 fund for the Disabled American Veterans of the world war were fired Monday afternoon when workers in the drive were organized into groups and given their instructions as to the procedure to be followed in the campaign.

Inspiring messages were given by Robert T. ("Bobby") Jones, world's champion golfer and head of the drive, and the Rev. N. R. H. Moor, while Roy Gates, of the Community Chest, explained the purpose of the drive and furnished instructions to the workers. The "hop-off" meeting was held at the Athletic club, with more than 75 prominent Atlantans in attendance.

"There is no doubt that Atlanta will respond to the appeal of the disabled veterans, as she never has fallen down on a real proposition, and I don't believe she will fall down on this," Bobby Jones told the workers.

Dr. Moor pointed out the obligation "we all owe to these men who are now handicapped in the struggle for life as the result of their services to our country," and said that every citizen owes it to the disabled veterans to see that the drive does not fail.

Five detachments. Five detachments of workers in the campaign set to work to round up Atlanta's quota immediately after the meeting. Each detachment, consisting of 20 men, is under the command of a "colonel." The detachments and their commanders follow: First detachment of naval forces, Commander Jack London, of the Tech naval reserve; first regiment of infantry, Basil Stockbridge; first regiment of marines, junior chamber of commerce, Basil Stockbridge; first regiment of cavalry, Hal G. Voorhis, and first machine gun battalion, Dr. Childs.

With the drive's opening, announcement was made that the contribution of $450 by the ex-soldiers themselves. The Woodrow Wilson chapter of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War contributed $300 and Atlanta Post No. 1 of American Legion $150.

Results of the drive will be announced later in the week, when another meeting of the workers will be held. Officials of the campaign said Monday that they firmly believe the drive will succeed for the full amount sought, and probably will be oversubscribed.

The amounts will be made only to a selected group of 500 individuals and firms whom the officials believe are most likely to contribute to help with substantial contributions. The $2,000,000 fund sought throughout the country is the amount considered necessary to finance the operation of the organization during the next 15 years. The chief interest of the association is to make it possible for men who were disabled in the world war to secure proper representation in pushing their requests for government compensation.

GROCERY STORE, HOMES ENTERED, LOOTED BY THIEVES

Several minor robberies were reported Monday to police. The grocery store of William Goldberg, at 469 Markham street, was burglarized, the thieves twisting a lock to gain entrance. Stockings and other merchandise formed the loot, according to reports. Police announced the arrest of four negroes on suspicion of having entered the store.

Another burglary was that of the home of Mrs. W. E. Stanley, 337 Nelson street, where groceries valued at $15 were stolen by thieves who entered through the bathroom window.

J. G. Crawford, of 997 Virginia avenue, reported to police that a large number of sample cigars were stolen from his automobile.

G. S. Mitchell, of Winter Haven, Fla., reported to police that he was robbed of watches, pins, rings and other jewelry on March 30.

Even the law was not safe from thieves Monday, as a report was received that a coat belonging to Mrs. Estelle Baker was stolen from the sheriff's office at Decatur.

Palestine Appeal Opens Tonight; Lewis To Speak

Judge William M. Lewis, national chairman of the United Palestine Appeal, will address Atlanta Jewry at a mass meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the auditorium of the Atlanta Jewish Women's club. Judge Lewis is a noted jurist of Philadelphia and is known throughout the country for his leadership in philanthropic movements and his oratorical powers.

Inauguration of the local United Palestine Appeal campaign will take place at the mass meeting. Judge Lewis, together with Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, as honorary national chairman, is heading the movement to raise $7,500,000 among Jews of America this year. He accepted the invitation to speak at the opening of Atlanta's drive because it is regarded as the keystone of the campaign in the south, where $200,000 is to be raised.

Judge Lewis has served three terms in the city council of Philadelphia and in 1923 was elected to the bench of the municipal court for a term of ten years after having received an appointment to the bench by Governor Sprout. He is one of the outstanding Jews of America and a fascinating speaker, whose visit here will be an occasion of great moment to the Jewish community. Accommodations for nearly 1,000 persons have been made. J. Saul, local chairman, will preside.

Houses built to sell are often poorly painted

WITH WHITE LEAD and linseed oil both lower in price, this is a good time to correct such mistakes.

First, be sure that your painter brushes, scrapes or burns off all the old paint. No responsible painter can afford to guarantee any paint put on over peeling or scaling paint.

Then have it painted with three coats of pure lead and oil paint, the last coat to be 19 to 20 lb. paint—Carter Soft Paste White Lead thinned, measure for measure, with pure linseed oil. When this paint wears down, it will require no special preparation for repainting.

Easier to thin, tint and spread

CARTER SOFT PASTE WHITE LEAD

Painters who have been accustomed to thinning 100 pounds of Carter Heavy Paste White Lead with 4 gallons of oil for finishing coats (half oil and half turps for undercoats) will get paint of same weight and consistency by thinning Carter Soft Paste with linseed oil measure for measure. The greater convenience of soft paste costs the painter nothing.

NOBLE PRAISES HEROISM OF CREW

Stolp, Germany, April 16.—(P)—General Umberto Nobile, who brought his dirigible Italia through heavy weather from Milan to the Sardinia airbase in a perilous 20-hour flight, sprang the first surprise of his brief stay at Stolp by quietly stealing away from the hotel to the airfield this morning when everybody supposed he was sleeping. Meeting the Italian mechanics, who preceded him a fortnight ago, he instructed them to repair the damage to the left stabilizer, which was slight, and also to overhaul the engines.

Returning to his hotel, he rested for a few hours and emerged in buoyant mood, now that the first actual step on his antarctic expedition has been taken.

"Yesterday's perilous flight," he said, "showed that the Italia is equal to any occasion. At times a head wind blew at 90 kilometers an hour, as the Italia only makes 100 kilometers an hour, we could negotiate only ten kilometers hourly for part of our journey. No wonder it took 30 1-2 hours instead of 20. It was then that my crew showed the stuff they are made of; they never flinched. I am proud of them."

Whether trial flights of the dirigible will be undertaken from Stolp, he said, "depends on the weather. General Nobile knows the Sardinia hangar quite well, for he was a member of the entire commission which inspected all the German hangars after the war. He also was instrumental in dismantling the big Stolp dirigible, little dreaming that the time would come when he would need the accommodation of his airship. The smaller hangar, which was left standing, as it was regarded as unimportant."

General Nobile tonight entered his name in Stolp's "Golden Book," which contains names of such celebrities as the former emperor and empress of Germany, Von Hindenburg, and General Mackensen. Then he entered the banquet hall, where the 24 selected guests drank his health. Ernst Brandenburg, of the transportation ministry, welcomed General Nobile, on behalf of the government and toasted the king of Italy. Colonel Fier replied for the members and proposed the health of President Von Hindenburg.

The colonel also extolled the feat of Captain Hermann Koell, of Bremen. In this he was seconded vigorously by Nobile's mascot Titina. The dog barked loudly every time that Koell's name was mentioned.

Big Reception Will Introduce New Drink Line

A new and distinctive line of beverages known as "Nu-Icy," will be introduced at the Atlanta public Wednesday at the formal opening of the modern plant on Peters street, which was announced Monday by Alderman W. Guy Dobbs, manager and secretary and treasurer of the Nu-Grape Bottling company of Atlanta, manufacturers of the new line.

The company will continue to make Nu-Grape, one of the most popular soft drinks in the entire country, but will add to this 15 other beverages which will be distributed under the trade name of "Nu-Icy." Decision of the company to add the new line came as a result of a popular demand that the company make other flavors along the same distinctive and high type line which has distinguished Nu-Grape for the past several years, company officials said.

Coincident with announcement that the plant will be in full operation when the new plant is formally opened to the public at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and to continue until 11 o'clock Thursday morning. Mr. Dobbs declared a series of entertainment features will be offered and that favors will be distributed.

Another open house session will begin at 10 o'clock Thursday morning and continue until 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon. An orchestra will furnish music and several vaudeville acts are included on the program for both sessions.

More than 15,000 personal invitations have been distributed by the company to the opening, and Mr. Dobbs Monday supplemented this by issuing a blanket invitation to the Atlanta public and residents of the surrounding territory to inspect the plant, inspect the machinery and view the manufacture of what is claimed to be the purest line of soft drinks manufactured anywhere in the world.

The plant involved an outlay of more than $75,000 and has been the case in the production of Nu-Grape, which ensure no pains or expense to assure the public of a pure product with the distinctive high quality which has made Nu-Grape one of the most popular soft drinks in the country.

Mr. Dobbs said, "The debut of Nu-Icy will mark a new era in the manufacture of soft drinks in this section of the country."

In addition to holding his positions in the Atlanta Nu-Grape company, Mr. Dobbs is a director of the Nu-Grape Bottling Company of America.

Foster Parents Needed by Boy, Job by Mother

There's a cute, curly-haired little 17-months-old baby at Grady hospital, and a pretty, winsome 17-year-old mother at police station, and both need some real friends very badly.

Monday's Constitution carried a story telling of a baby boy left with Mrs. L. Billingsley, of 17 Fair street, S. W., by a young mother, who said she would return in a few minutes. But the minutes were longer, and in the interim the infant was taken to Grady hospital.

The girl-mother applied at Grady hospital early Monday morning and removed the infant. She went to her apartment on Crew street, which she occupies with an elderly woman, and hired Katie Jordan, negress, of 751 Reed street, to care for the baby, and then left.

At 7 o'clock Monday night, the mother had not returned and so Katie brought the little chap to police station, and he later was removed to Grady hospital again. The apartment rent was long overdue, and the mother was brought to police station, where she was placed under care of the matron.

The little child could use some foster parents, and the mother would like a job. Anything with which she can earn a bare living, will do, she says.

BODY OF WRIGLEY WILL ARRIVE TODAY FROM KENTUCKY

The body of W. H. Wrigley, 65, president of the Wrigley Engraving company, who died Sunday afternoon in Henderson, Ky., following an illness of several days, will arrive in Atlanta today.

Mr. Wrigley and his wife had been visiting their daughter in Grand Rapids, Mich., and were on route home when he was taken ill and had to stop over in a Henderson, Ky., hospital, where he succumbed Sunday afternoon.

He was a native of Philadelphia, Pa., and came to Atlanta more than 20 years ago to assume charge of the Journal's stereotyping department. He remained with the Journal for about 10 years and then established the engraving plant that bears his name, with his two sons, J. T. and J. A. Wrigley, as associates.

He was a member of the chamber of commerce and was a fourth degree member of the Knights of Columbus. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Sam R. Greenberg and company.
